

Dr. Ralph Davis currently serves as the Dean of Clinics for the Life University College of Chiropractic in Marietta, Georgia. Dr. Davis holds degrees in biology, nuclear medicine, and chiropractic with certification in chiropractic pediatrics. He is currently completing his doctorate in education with a major in curriculum and instruction.

Over the past 24 years, since earning his doctorate in chiropractic, he has split his time almost equally between private practice and academic appointments. He has owned several successful chiropractic clinics and has held academic appointments at three other chiropractic colleges before joining the administration at Life University. As Dean of Clinics for the Life University College of Chiropractic, he is responsible for the administration of all of the college's domestic and international clinics; which include, a large outpatient clinic on the Life campus in Marietta, three smaller outreach clinics serving the indigent of the area, and supplemental clinics in China, West Africa, Costa Rica, Sweden and most recently, New Zealand.
